

THE ADVERTISER.

AND CENTRAL ALBERTA NEWS.

VOL. IX.

LACOMBE, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 22, 1907

NO 9

Local and General.

Bain wagons are best for Alberta!

Mrs. MacCully was down from Edmonton last week.

For Sale—A new buggy. Apply to Mrs. D. C. Ebersole, Lacombe.

Now is the time to get your pictures framed cheap at the Furniture Store.

The Editor left on Tuesday evening for Iowa for short visit with relatives.

For that tight cough try Dr. Thomas's Balsam of Spruce and Tar, at Medical Hall.

The nicest work done by any two furrow plow is that of Massey-Harris Imperial.

Come in and get right prices on furniture carpets and curtains at the Furniture Store.

Everybody says the Massey-Harris binder with floating elevators is best for heavy crops.

Danish and International stock food are hard runners for first place. We carry both in stock.—Medical Hall.

We need the money, you need the furniture. Come in and get our prices. We can satisfy you.—Coffin & Klein.

Aunger & Shuts now have their dental parlors established upstairs in the Pearson Block, just over their old location.

A committee of the board of directors of the Agricultural Society went out to the new grounds Monday to consider the location of the building and track, etc.

The Masonic picnic last Friday was favored with one of the few nice days of the week. A goodly number attended and all enjoyed the day as do picnic parties at Gull Lake always.

The eleven month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Boodie died last Saturday morning, of summer complaint. The funeral services were held on Monday at 2 p. m., the body being laid to rest in Lacombe cemetery.

The Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, has issued a poultry bulletin entitled "Advanced Methods of Poultry Farming." A copy will be mailed free to any person making application for same to the Department.

At the school meeting held in the town hall last week, B. F. Bailey was chosen for member of the school board to fill vacancy occasioned by the resignation of W. F. Brett. There being no other nominations, Mr. Bailey goes in by acclamation.

The ladies aid of the Methodist church will hold a lawn social Tuesday evening August 27th on H. M. Trimble's lawn. The Lacombe band will be in attendance and a good program will be prepared. Ice cream, cake and coffee will be served. Everybody come and have a good time.

Palmer of the Agricultural Society found much fault with The Advertiser for stating a few weeks ago, as a matter of news, that this year's fair would be held on the old agricultural grounds. At the risk of again seriously offending him we will now repeat the statement. This year's fair will be held on the old grounds.

There will be a convention of the public school teachers of Inspector Thibault's district, in Lacombe on October 3rd and 4th, the date of the Lacombe Fall Fair. A splendid program is being prepared for the occasion. A member of the Normal school will be here to address the teachers. A basket ball game is being arranged for the same dates between Wetaskiwin and Lacombe.

The weather for the past ten days has been anything but favorable for farming operations. Rainy and stormy days have predominated. Yet our stores have been so much lighter than those that have prevailed in eastern Canada, Manitoba and the northern states, that we have not much room to complain. Snow is reported in southern Alberta, also in the mountains and in and near the foothills west of this place on Sunday last.

Civic Holiday.

In compliance with a request from the citizens of Lacombe, I declare Friday the 23rd day of August, a civic holiday.

D. C. Gourlay, Mayor.

Telegraph Operators Strike.

A short time ago there was a strike of the Union telegraph operators at Los Angeles, California, the operators demanding an eight hour day, 25 per cent increase of wages, and more sanitary offices, demanding also that the Companies should furnish typewriters. The men went back to work without coming to a satisfactory agreement with the Companies, and shortly afterward the operators charged that Union men were discharged without any other cause than that they were Union men, and "scabs" put on in their place.

Union men at other points were apprised of the condition of affairs and refused to send messages to the office where the "scabs" were employed. The remaining Union men at Los Angeles went out on the 9th and this precipitated a general strike which promises to affect the entire continent. About four thousand Union telegraphers are now out and business is seriously crippled in all the big cities.

Col. Clowry, president and general manager of the Western Union-Telegraph company, states the company's position as follows:

"On July 23rd an operator at Los Angeles was charged with maliciously delaying traffic. As a careful investigation, which occupied several days, showed conclusively that he was guilty of deliberately obstructing traffic on important circuits, he was discharged. A petition signed by other employees of the office, requesting his reinstatement, was thereupon presented to the local superintendent, and when the signers were advised that the company would not tolerate the malicious delaying of important messages, and that the discharged operator would not be re-employed, the majority of the operating force quit work. Operators were sent to take their places from nearby points, and at 11 o'clock last night the operators in the Chicago office working on the west circuits, working in conformity or resolution adopted by the local organization, refused to work with the non-union men at Los Angeles and when this was insisted on they quit work in a body. The Chicago operators have presented no grievances, and the present movement is an attempt to force the closed shop rule, which, if successful, would take control of the company's affairs out of its own hands. Such a condition, as has been repeatedly shown, is inimical to the confidential and responsible character of the company's relation to the United States government and to the public."

Red Deer Gets Mill Experience. At the Board of Trade meeting last night it was shown that about $5,000 cash a month was sent out of this town for flour alone and our mill is standing idle in a wheat country and our farmers shipping their grain to outside points.—Red Deer News.

Farmers using Massey-Harris Separators are guaranteed not to lose one lb of butter fat per cow in six years.

Communication.

The great need of the farming community for a union of some nature seems to have been met at last by the organization of the Society of Equity, the aim of which is to secure a more equitable position for the farmer, by opening and developing markets, operating elevators, manufacturing machinery, holding and selling grain and in other ways assisting him through the Society.

A strong branch of this Society has been formed at Lacombe, the farmers joining together regardless of race or creed, for a common cause. Fortnightly meetings are held in Todd's Hall, where business of interest to farmers such as the signing of lien notes, sale of grain, and so forth is freely discussed. After the disposal of business, the members are free to engage in social intercourse.

The meeting on Saturday night took the form of an open meeting, and many town people were present, who were much interested in the opinions advanced by various speakers.

In the absence of President Dean, Mr. Wakeman, organizing secretary, took the chair and called the meeting to order. After the reading and adoption of last meetings minutes, Mr. Wakeman introduced for discussion a communication he was in receipt of, from the Society organ, "The North-West Farmer," which asked for the support of the branches as he feared the stock company would be unable to continue their contract much longer.

Some discussion followed, the principal speakers being Messrs. Rouse, Shipley, Smith and Cox. Some members were of the opinion that the paper should be continued, or the subscription money returned to the subscribers. A motion, made by Mr. Cox and seconded by Mr. Shipley, to the effect that the local branch support the paper, was carried. The reading of the constitution and enrollment of new members was then proceeded with.

In the interesting programme which followed, special mention should be made of the instrumental selections by Messrs. Cox and Boutin and Miss Keane and the solos of Miss Keane, a welcome visitor in town and the possessor of a rich full voice which greatly pleased the large audience. The singing of the wakeners trio and Mrs. Heck was also very enjoyable, as also the humorous selections Mr. Todd rendered on the gramophone. Mr. Bradford acted as chairman for the programme, and Miss Heekin, an accomplished musician, lately arrived in Alberta, acted as accompanist.

Capital:
$5,000,000.
Assets:
$50,000,000

UNION BANK
OF CANADA

Established
1865.
Over 130
Branches.

This bank has a reputation founded upon more than two score years of progress. Increasing—expanding—becoming stronger and more permanent all the time.

No other bank of the first rank offers greater facilities to its customers in every line of business. MERCHANTS, FARMERS, GRAIN DEALERS, CATTLE BUYERS, MANUFACTURERS, CORPORATIONS.

SAVINGS BANK accounts may be opened with a deposit of $1.00 or more. Interest paid 4 times a year.

LACOMBE BRANCH: E. K. STRATHY, Manager.

Lacombe Furniture Store

Bring your pictures in and get them framed. A fine line of picture mouldings always on hand. Get our prices on Furniture, we can please you in price as well as in quality.

COFFIN & KLEIN.

Barnett Ave., Lacombe

THE LEADING STORE

The Change of Seasons

Naturally brings the desire of a change in wearing apparel. We find the majority of people undecided as to what to buy. There is many an article here in wash goods which would be good buying at the price offered, and even considering the time of year, and on the other hand we are being fast filled up with winter and fall goods which are being priced very closely.

It will pay you to pay attention to us!

Groceries

Granulated Sugar.....$5.75 per 100 lb
Royal Household flour..... 2.75 per sack
Glenora flour..... 2.60 per sack
Our good 25c coffee now.....20c
Our Tartan Ceylon tea.....30c
Our Tartan tea green.....35c

Groceries

Best sliced evaporated apples.....10c lb
Best Valencia raisins 25 lb boxes.....$3.00
Good prunes 25 lb boxes..... 1.75
Fancy prunes 25 lb boxes..... 2.25
Best peaches.....18c lb
5 o'clock black tea.....25c lb

The 23rd August the first day of Duck Shooting

We are well stocked with hammer and hammerless guns double or single barrels.

Cartridges: The Eley Grand Prix, Dominion Sovereign, Bonax Smokeless.

Binder Twine

The best makes at best prices.

CAMPBELL & TITSWORTH.

To the Citizens of Lacombe:

Having disposed of my business to Mr. F. P. Switzer, I take this opportunity of thanking my many customers for the liberal patronage extended to me in the past, and solicit a continuance of the same for Mr. Switzer. The new proprietor will carry the same high class goods for which this store is noted and you will find that for anything in the line of groceries, confectionery, fruits, tobacco, etc., his prices cannot be beaten in Lacombe. The business will be continued in the same stand, opposite Fortune's Livery.

J. G. PRATT.

Lacombe Meat Market

Choice beef, pork, sausages and fish. Telephone orders will receive careful attention.

A. A. Woodle,

NEXT TO ROYAL HOTEL

LACOMBE

Lingerie Waists!

To clear out the rest of our waists we are offering them at very low prices, so low that you will not be able to resist having one if you come in and look them over. There are a number of styles in the collection, all prettily trimmed with lace and embroidery, long and short sleeves.

We have also a beautiful stock of White Underwear which we are selling at twenty per cent discount off the regular price.

MRS. G. G. MOBLEY

THE Masquerader

By KATHERINE CECIL THURSTON,
Author of "The Circle" Etc.

Copyright, 1905, 1906, by Harper & Brothers

(Continued)

TO all men come portentous moments, difficult moments, triumphant moments. Loder had but no moment in his career even equaled in strangeness of sensation that in which, dressed in another man's clothes, he fitted the livery for the first time into the door of the other man's house.

The act was quietly done. The key fitted the lock smoothly, and his fingers turned it without hesitation, though his heart, usually extremely steady, beat sharply for a second. The hall looked massive and somber, despite the modernity of electric lights. It was darkly and expensively decorated in black and brown; a fringe of wrought bronze, representing peacocks with outspread tails, ornamented the walls; the banisters were of heavy ironwork, and the somewhat formidable fireplace was of the same dark metal.

Loder looked about him, then advanced, his heart again beating quickly as his hand touched the cold banister and he began his ascent of the stairs. But at each step his confidence strengthened, his feet became more firm until, at the head of the stairs, as if to dispel his assurance, his pulses played him false once more, this time to more serious cause. From the further end of a well lighted corridor a maid was coming straight in his direction.

For one short second all things seemed to whiz about his head; the certainty of detection overpowered his mind. The indubitable knowledge that he was John Loder and no other, despite all armor of effrontery and dress, so dominated him that at all considerations shrank before it. It waited but one word, one simple word of denunciation, and his whole scheme was shattered. The dismay of the moment he almost wished that the word might be spoken and the suspense ended.

But the maid came on in silence, and so incredible was the silence that Loder moved onward too. He came within a yard of her, and still she did not speak. Then, as he passed her, she drew back respectfully against the wall.

The strain, so astonishingly short, had been immense, but with its slackening came a strong reaction. The expected humiliation seemed suddenly to a desire to drive her away. Penning quickly, he turned and called the woman back.

The spot where he had halted was vividly bright, the ceiling light being Loder bore his scrutiny without flinching, directly above his head, and as she came toward him he raised his face deliberately and waited.

She looked at him without surprise or interest. "Yes, sir?" she said.

"Is your mistress in?" he asked. He could think of no other question, but it served his purpose as a test of his voice.

Still the woman showed no surprise. "She's not in, sir," she answered. "But she's expected in half an hour."

"In half an hour?" he said. "That's all I wanted." With a movement of decision Loder walked back to the stair head, turned to the right and opened the door of Chilcote's room.

The door opened on a short, wide passage. On one side stood the study, on the other the bed, bath and dressing rooms. With a blind sense of familiarity and unfamiliarity, bred of much description on Chilcote's part, he put his hand on the study door and, still exalted by the success of his first access, turned the handle.

Inside the room there was fretting and lamp-light and a strange air of peace. The realization of this and a low incredulity at Chilcote's voluntary renunciation were his first impressions. That his attention was needed for more tumultuous things.

As he entered the new secretary was returning a reply to his glance on the book-shelf. At sight of him he looked at it hastily into position and turned round.

"I was making a few notes on the political position of Khorraman," he said, glancing with slight apprehensiveness at the other's face. He was a slender, young man, with few social attainments, but an extraordinary amount of learning; the antithesis of the alert Blesington, whom he had replaced.

Loder bore his scrutiny without flinching. Indeed, it struck him suddenly from the door, a man of interest, a man of excitement, in the countenance of each new pair of eyes. At the thought he moved forward to the desk.

"Thank you, Greening," he said. "A very useful bit of work."

The secretary glanced up, slightly puzzled, at the operation.

"I have been in the fourteen days that he had filled his new post."

"I'm glad you see, sir," he said, hesitatingly. "You rather postulated the matter this morning, if you remember."

Loder was taking off his coat, but stopped in the operation.

"This morning?" he said. "Oh, did it? Did I?" Then struck by the opportunity the words gave him he turned toward the secretary. "You've got to get used to me, Greening," he said. "You haven't quite grasped me yet, I know. Up to the present you've seen my slack side, my jaded side, but I have quite another when I care to show it. I'm a sort of Jekyll and Hyde affair." Again he laughed, and Greening echoed the sound diffidently. Chilcote had evidently discouraged familiarity.

Loder eyed him with abrupt understanding. He recognized the loneliness in the anxious, conciliatory manner. He knew Chilcote for six weeks. "I dined with the Fraides tonight," he said. "Mr. Fraide sent you a message."

Unconsciously Loder smiled. There was humor in the thought of a message to him from the great Fraide. To hide his amusement he wheeled one of the big leather chairs forward.

"Indeed," he said. "Won't you sit down?"

They were near together now, and he saw her face more fully. Again he was taken aback. Chilcote had spoken of her as successful and intelligent, but she was beautiful. Yet her beauty was a rare and uncommon fact. Her hair was black—not a glossy black, but the dusky black that is softer than any brown—her eyes were large and of a peculiarly gray blue, and her eyebrows were black, beautifully curved and of remarkable thickness.

"Won't you sit down?" he said again, cutting short his thoughts with some confusion.

"Thank you," she gravely accepted the proffered chair. By a new tact without any ostentation she drew her skirts aside as she passed him. The action displeased him unconsciously.

"Well," he said shortly, "what had Fraide to say?" He walked to the mantelpiece with his customary movement and stood watching her. The instinct to follow her first led him to him. Her instant and uninterested acceptance of him almost nettled him. His own half-conscious impression of Chilcote came to him unpleasantly and with it the first desire to assert his own individuality. Stung by the conflicting emotions he felt in Chilcote's pockets for something to smoke.

He saw and interpreted the action. "Are these your cigarettes?" she leaned forward, and he took up a box made of lizard skin.

"Thanks," he took the box from her, and as it passed from one to the other he saw her glance at his ring. The glance was momentary. Her lips parted to express question or surprise, then closed again without comment. More than any spoken words the incident showed him the gulf that separated husband and wife.

"By Jove," he said aloud, "what about Fraide?"

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

or attention—no surprise crossed his face, and he—led his head. Some one had snatched—only passed under the door—Greening's key.

"There was a moment of apparent doubt, then a stir of skirts, a quick, uncertain knock, and the intruder disappeared."

For a couple of seconds she stood in the doorway; then as Loder made no effort to speak she moved into the room. She had apparently not just returned from some entertainment, for, though she had drawn off her long gloves, she was still wearing an evening cloak of lace and fur.

That she was Chilcote's wife Loder instinctively realized the moment she entered the room. But a disconcerting confusion of ideas was all that followed the knowledge. He stood by the desk, silent and awestruck, trying to fit his expectations to her knowledge. Then, faced by the hopelessness of the task, he turned abruptly and looked at her again.

She had taken off her cloak and was standing by the fire. The compilation of moving from life alone had set her back upon her in a certain way. In a session, a certain confidence of pose, yet her figure as Loder then saw it, backgrounded by the dark book and gilded in pale blue, had a suggestion of youthfulness that seemed a contradiction. The remembrance of Chilcote's epithet—"old"—and "miserable" came back to him with something like astonishment. He felt no uncertainty, no dread of discovery and humiliation in her presence. He felt in her face that made him finally more uncomfortable, a look he could not name for, a look that, studiously covered another feeling, whether question, distrust or facial dislike, he could not name. With strange sensation of awkwardness he sorted Chilcote's letters, waiting for her to speak.

As if thinking his thought she turned toward him. "I'm afraid I rather intrude," she said. "I am busy."

His sense of courtesy was touched. He had been in life with a high opinion of women, and the words shook up an echo of the old sentiment.

"Don't think that," he said hastily. "I was only looking through my letters. You mustn't rate yourself below letters." He was conscious that his tone was hurried, that his knowledge a little jagged, but Eve did not appear to notice. Unlike Greening, she took the new manner without surprise. She turned to Chilcote for six weeks.

"I dined with the Fraides tonight," she said. "Mr. Fraide sent you a message."

Unconsciously Loder smiled. There was humor in the thought of a message to him from the great Fraide. To hide his amusement he wheeled one of the big leather chairs forward.

"Indeed," he said. "Won't you sit down?"

They were near together now, and he saw her face more fully. Again he was taken aback. Chilcote had spoken of her as successful and intelligent, but she was beautiful. Yet her beauty was a rare and uncommon fact. Her hair was black—not a glossy black, but the dusky black that is softer than any brown—her eyes were large and of a peculiarly gray blue, and her eyebrows were black, beautifully curved and of remarkable thickness.

"Won't you sit down?" he said again, cutting short his thoughts with some confusion.

"Thank you," she gravely accepted the proffered chair. By a new tact without any ostentation she drew her skirts aside as she passed him. The action displeased him unconsciously.

"Well," he said shortly, "what had Fraide to say?" He walked to the mantelpiece with his customary movement and stood watching her. The instinct to follow her first led him to him. Her instant and uninterested acceptance of him almost nettled him. His own half-conscious impression of Chilcote came to him unpleasantly and with it the first desire to assert his own individuality. Stung by the conflicting emotions he felt in Chilcote's pockets for something to smoke.

He saw and interpreted the action. "Are these your cigarettes?" she leaned forward, and he took up a box made of lizard skin.

"Thanks," he took the box from her, and as it passed from one to the other he saw her glance at his ring. The glance was momentary. Her lips parted to express question or surprise, then closed again without comment. More than any spoken words the incident showed him the gulf that separated husband and wife.

"By Jove," he said aloud, "what about Fraide?"

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Looker, mountain of how it take the words, moved back to the desk. He carried an unlighted cigarette between his fingers.

There was an interval in which neither spoke. Then at last, conscious of the awkwardness of the pose, with one hand on the back of her chair she looked at him.

"Mr. Fraide thinks it's such a pity that she should be so busy," she said. "that you should lose hold on things—lose interest in things—as you are doing. He has been thinking a good deal about you in the last three weeks, ever since the day of your—your illness in the house, and it seems to him—again she broke off, watching Loder's averted eyes, repeating the words—

"I'll think over what you've said," he said, looking at her.

He had—realized to him that if you made a real effort now, even now, to shake off your restlessness that your—your health might improve. He thinks that the present crisis would be—she hesitated—"would give you a tremendous opportunity. Your trade interests, though, are not so light as they used to be. I have little—none, perhaps—but I couldn't tell him that, and so—so I promised."

And here came the promise? Loder spoke in a low, steady voice. Her words had both affected him. There was a sensation of unreality in his mind.

"Yes," she answered. "I always want to do what I can."

"As she spoke a sudden realization of the secret she was making struck upon him, and with it his room of Chilcote rose in renewed force.

"My intention?" he began, turning to her, and she smiled slightly. "I shall think over what you say," he added after a minute's wait. "I suppose I can't say more than that."

They were near together now, and he saw her face more fully. Again he was taken aback. Chilcote had spoken of her as successful and intelligent, but she was beautiful. Yet her beauty was a rare and uncommon fact. Her hair was black—not a glossy black, but the dusky black that is softer than any brown—her eyes were large and of a peculiarly gray blue, and her eyebrows were black, beautifully curved and of remarkable thickness.

"Won't you sit down?" he said again, cutting short his thoughts with some confusion.

"Thank you," she gravely accepted the proffered chair. By a new tact without any ostentation she drew her skirts aside as she passed him. The action displeased him unconsciously.

"Well," he said shortly, "what had Fraide to say?" He walked to the mantelpiece with his customary movement and stood watching her. The instinct to follow her first led him to him. Her instant and uninterested acceptance of him almost nettled him. His own half-conscious impression of Chilcote came to him unpleasantly and with it the first desire to assert his own individuality. Stung by the conflicting emotions he felt in Chilcote's pockets for something to smoke.

He saw and interpreted the action. "Are these your cigarettes?" she leaned forward, and he took up a box made of lizard skin.

"Thanks," he took the box from her, and as it passed from one to the other he saw her glance at his ring. The glance was momentary. Her lips parted to express question or surprise, then closed again without comment. More than any spoken words the incident showed him the gulf that separated husband and wife.

"By Jove," he said aloud, "what about Fraide?"

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

Loder, to his great humiliation, reddened. Except for an occasional outburst on the part of Mrs. Robbins, his characteristic, he had not needed a woman's displeasure for years.

"The snar was unintentional," he said.

For the first time she showed a personal interest. She looked at him in a puzzled way. "If your apology was meant," she said hesitatingly, "I should be glad to accept it."

At his words she sat straighter and looked at him more directly, as if braced for something.

"Mr. Fraide is as interested as ever in you," she began.

"Or in you?" Loder made the inquiry, guessing he had hit Chilcote's weak point. He had made it. Then instantly he wished the words back.

Chilcote's eyes were full of more deep thought. For a second the inscrutable, deriding expression that puzzled him showed in her eyes, then she sank back to her corner of the chair.

"Why do you make such a point of sneering at my friends?" she asked quietly. "I overlook it when you sneer at me. But you are not nervous to-night."

A HANDY HOLDER.

A Thing Appreciated When Lifting a Hot Taper.

If you have ever taken hold unadvisedly of a hot taper or coalscope handle and just as suddenly dropped it, to the destruction of handsome china, you will realize that a little holder that can be made really ornamental as well as useful.

Two circular pieces of linen six inches long and four wide. On one embroider a simple design in forget-me-nots or daisies in white mercerized cotton and leave the other piece plain. Baste the edges together and bind all around with a narrow wadding in white. On the under half leave an opening in the center, into which can be slipped either a quilted lining of cotton flannel or asbestos, the same shape as the cover. Fasten this piece with tiny buttons and buttonholes.

If one does not care to see the floral design on the cover, a large monogram in the lengthwise ribbon initial, padded and worked in satin stitch, will be very stylish.

Though not as convenient or as new as the memorable linen holders, which can be easily laundered, a dainty affair can be made of odd remnants of ribbon or plain silk, with a cotton lining. These small holders may be square, circular or oval in shape, though perhaps the last is most convenient. Cut two pieces the required shape, and then with several thicknesses of cotton wadding, sew them together and quilt in small diamonds. A frill of narrow ribbon may be placed all around the edge to give a pretty finish.

Do all this with much care, and you may hold the rim of the bowl down against the bottom of the goblet as long as you please, and the time the goblet will remain dry on the floating cork, for the air in the upper part of the goblet will prevent the water from rising.

When you have held the goblet as long enough for everybody to see it, raise it gently and remove the cork, and you will find the sugar as dry as when you put it into the water.

The Money and the Dog. A good story is told of a dog that one day discovered an organ grinder's monkey seated on a bank within his master's grounds. Naturally the dog made a rush for it, but the monkey, which was cunning, was not so easily taken and undisturbed that the dog suddenly halted to reconnoiter. Then he stared at each other until the time the dog was suddenly having recovered from his surprise, made ready to spring, but the monkey merely left it until his rollie but mysterious visitor had departed.

The Best Character. A certain king once received a character for the honor, and one by one they were brought before the king. He invited each to a banquet and a chair of his chariot near a precipice, how near could you steer without falling over? The first said two feet, the next, three, the third, that a few inches would be quite enough for him; a fourth came and said, "I will drive the king's chariot, I should consider it my duty to keep as far away as possible from the precipice. The king said that by the way, the safest man, and he was at once engaged.

The Celebrated Iron Crown. This famous crown was of gold and precious stones set in a thin ring of iron which was believed to have been formed from a nail of Christ's cross. It was made by order of the queen of the Longobards in 591 and presented to her husband. With this crown Charlemagne was crowned and after him all the emperors who were kings of the Romans. It was this crown that Napoleon put on his head at St. Cloud, May 20, 1805, exclaiming as he did so: "God has given it to me. Woe to him who touches it."

A Common Misapprehension. One of the commonest misapprehensions is that of the word "servant." Nearly everybody pronounces it e-serv-ant, with the accent on the first syllable. While that is not given as secondary by Webster and the Century dictionary, both give preference to e-serv-ant, with the accent on the second syllable. Worcester gives that pronunciation only, not allowing e-serv-ant. It is evident, therefore, that we should say e-serv-ant—Chicago News.

A Spring Miracle. In the wood of Aok of snowflakes drifted down among the trees. "Oh, how lovely you're very rare," the king said to the queen. "Dear, oh, dear!" the snowflakes whispered. "How the fairy land will taste." "Thank you, my dear, for the king's gift." The king said to the queen.

To Clean Marble. While the floor or white wooden steps will always look cleaner and fresher if washed with a fine, white powder that is very generally used for this purpose.

Reason For Henry's Wheel. Everywhere in the world the wheels of wagons and carriages are made of iron. The reason for this is that iron is stronger than wood and is more durable.

The Advertiser.

LACOMBE, ALTA.

The Lacombe Advertiser is published every Thursday evening at its office, Barnard Avenue, Lacombe. Subscription $1.00 per year in advance. All kinds of job printing turned out in first class style.

F. W. SCROGGLEY, Publisher.

Thursday, August 22, 1907.

Borden Will Tour the West.

R. L. Borden the Conservative leader has mapped out a busy program for himself, starting on August 20 on a tour of the Dominion that will embrace the far east and the far west in a little over two months, and by the time he gets back to Ottawa he should have gained a fairly accurate idea of the appearance and political feeling of all the provinces. That is, of course the main object of the tour.

It will not be much of a holiday trip. The spectacular features of a welcome home will be lacking, but Mr. Borden may be assured none the less of a hearty welcome from the men of the west. He will find the men of the west worth knowing, too, and it is not at all unlikely that he will somewhere in the west come across a man whom he wants as lieutenant. It is owing to the Conservatives of the west that their resources of men and brain be recognized, and we look for the choice of the men who are to sit high in Mr. Borden's councils, when the time of his triumph comes, to include some of our men from the west. That he has this before him as a thing to be desired is practically certain.

As far as bearing whatever message Mr. Borden may have to bring, all Canada will be ready and eager to hear him. A word in season and a strong word will meet with hearty and honest response, for such a word Canada, tired of double dealing and political tactics, is waiting.

Mr. Borden's tour will begin in Nova Scotia, where in his own province and city and among his own people he will first sound the keynote of Conservative policy. After doing the maritime provinces and Quebec he will spend from September 7 to 17 in Ontario, and from there will go to British Columbia where he will spend from September 24 to October 3. Alberta and Saskatchewan will be visited on the return trip, with one week in each. The dates arranged for Alberta are October 3 to 10. The tour will conclude with Manitoba and the west Ontario towns of Fort William and Port Arthur. The arrangement of the dates and places within these time limits is being left to the local Conservative organizations.

The Banks Responsible for Financial Stringency.

The Winnipeg Commercial, a publication that should be thoroughly conversant with the financial situation, in a recent issue has the following to say:

Among the business men of this part of Canada considerable indignation is being expressed at the action of the chartered banks. The latter are accused of cutting off credit in legitimate business, and investing their funds in New York and other outside places. The banks of Canada take millions of money on deposit from the Canadian people and take it over the boundary line to use in the large markets there, where they can secure a high rate of interest on calls.

At the same time they refuse to loan money in the western cities and towns for municipal debentures, which are good substantial security. Their right to call a halt in loaning for speculation is not questioned; but it is reckoned rather unfair that they should refuse to invest Canadian money in legitimate Canadian business, especially when they have it to invest in foreign interests.

Vaccination for Blackleg and Anthrax in Cattle.

The disease known as blackleg in cattle, although entirely unknown in many extensive agricultural sections of Canada and not at all wide spread in any district or province, annually causes quite extensive losses to cattle raisers. Anthrax, which is quite a different disease, although frequently confused with blackleg in the minds of many cattle raisers, is also the cause of serious loss of stock. The former disease is almost entirely confined to cattle under 3 years, and is generally fatal. The latter attacks other classes of farm animals and the human subject is not exempt from its infection which generally results seriously.

By the aid of science cattle raisers are now enabled to protect their stock against these maladies. As the human family is vaccinated against small pox, in the same manner cattle are rendered immune from blackleg and anthrax. The Department of Agriculture at Ottawa through the Health of Animals branch is now in a position to supply preventive vaccine for each of these diseases at the nominal cost of five cents per dose. Until recently, by special arrangement with extensive manufacturers in the United States, these products were secured at a reduced cost, and were placed in the hands of Canadian cattle raisers at ten cents per dose for blackleg vaccine and fourteen cents per dose for anthrax vaccine. It is due to the fact that these preparations are now being made at the Biological Laboratory in connection with the Health of Animals Branch that they can be supplied at five cents per dose.

The vaccine for blackleg may be administered by any intelligent person by means of an instrument supplied by the Department at fifty cents.

Anthrax vaccine, which is also supplied at five cents per dose, is more difficult to administer, requiring a qualified veterinarian to treat an animal.

Cattle raisers who have fear of an attack of either blackleg or anthrax would do well to apply to the Veterinary Director General at Ottawa for the proper preventive treatment.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidneys. The kidneys, like the lungs and the stomach, and their weakness, not in the organs themselves but in the nerves that control and govern them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specially prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well. If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is acid, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other disturbing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Talcott or Ketchum will tell you what it has done for you. Druggists recommended and sell.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative
"ALL DEALERS"

"Not one man in ten reads books. The newspaper is parent, school, college, pulpit, theatre, example, counsellor all in one."—Wendell Phillips.

What papers do you read? Let us suggest the satisfying combination of a first class metropolitan daily and a well edited, up-to-date local weekly such as

THE WINNIPEG DAILY FREE PRESS

LACOMBE ADVERTISER

We will send you the above two excellent papers on a three months' trial order for 75c, and prepay the postage on both. A nominal price, just to get you started; you will not, we are satisfied, having once read them, be content to do without them. To take advantage of this offer you must, however, be a resident of Alberta.

The following form filled out and forwarded to the Advertiser will receive grateful acknowledgment and prompt attention.

Advertiser, Lacombe:

Mail to undersigned address the Winnipeg Daily Free Press and the Lacombe Advertiser, postage prepaid, for three months, for which I enclose 75c.

Name

Address

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada

Manufactures and uses High Grade Telephones, Switch-boards, and other apparatus and material for Telephone Plants.

The Company offers for sale at low prices to ALL WHO MAY REQUIRE THEM, this quality of Telephones, Telephone Equipment and Apparatus. Applications or correspondence is solicited from those who wish to purchase such supplies.

The Bell Telephone Company constructs and operates FARMER'S LINES in connection with its LOCAL EXCHANGES on a rental basis, at reasonable rates, or the company will give connection with its local exchanges and Long Distance Lines to RURAL LINES constructed by the FARMERS THEMSELVES on reasonable terms. When required the company will give expert and other assistance in the building of such lines. With Bell Telephone Company instruments and supervision of construction, good service is assured.

Particulars, on application to F. C. Paterson, Manager, Northwest Department, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada

This range's oven is rather larger than seems necessary, but you'll like the extra room, since it takes less fuel and less fuss to do better baking. Oven lined with heavy asbestos to keep heat where it belongs; top, bottom and back uniformly thick.

Burns Wood or Coal

OXFORD CHANCELLOR

This drop-oven door can't slam down nor get wobbly on hinges—patent check-spring stops that. Oven bottom is double—perforated-steel loose bottom over the real oven bottom: level surface, always. Way the fire door's built, and the special draft design, make this the most sensitive of ranges to control—easy to manage, sure to satisfy. Come and look it over,—you've seen no range like it for the money.

THE GURNEY FOUNDRY CO., LIMITED

Toronto
Montreal Hamilton
Winnipeg Calgary Vancouver

The Lacombe Advertiser

AND

The Weekly Montreal Herald

$1.00

for a year to subscribers paying a year in advance.

Now is the time to subscribe.

There are many good newspaper clubbing offers made, but the offer The Advertiser is making is the very best we have ever seen. We are offering to give a great city weekly absolutely free for a whole year to every subscriber who pays for The Advertiser one year in advance at the regular subscription price of $1.00 per year. This makes two weekly papers for the price of one.

Our many readers are well aware that The Advertiser is one of the leading country weeklies of Alberta, but all may not be so well acquainted with the Montreal Herald. Following are some of the features contained in one of the Herald's regular issues of the current year, and this is a fair sample of the average excellence of the paper:

Growing Times in the West—glimpses of the Canadian west.

History of England during the Last Half Century.

Serial Story—"The King of Diamonds."

Short stories by the world's greatest writers—

"This Animal of a Bully Jones," by F. Norris.

"A Pass for the Theatre," by Ramsay Colles.

"A Strip of Red Gingham."

Past and Present: Far and Near—A collection of interesting articles on many subjects.

"Sunday at Home" Department—good interesting reading matter for Sunday.

Families Famous in English History.

The week's news told in brief and interesting form.

Dominion news in brief.

Christie Carew's page for women.

Agricultural Department—Useful information for the farmer.

Market Reports carefully compiled from the leading Canadian grain and produce markets.

One piece of the latest sheet music.

Do not mistake the name of the paper we are offering in this Dollar combination: The Weekly Montreal Herald.

Send your $ to The Advertiser office.

Professional Cards.

JOHN McLENNAN, Notary Public and Conveyancer.
Office, 100, St. James Street, N. W. C.
Office, 100, St. James Street, N. W. C.

D. M. DUNN, B.A., L.M. MacDonald, B.A.
DUNN & MACDONALD
Notaries Public and Conveyancers. Solicitors for H. O. Dunn & Co., the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and the Bank of Montreal. Also, the Union Bank of Canada, etc., etc. Company and private funds to loan on town and farm property.
Lacombe Office, Merchants Bank Bldg.
P. O. Drawer 1, Lacombe, Alberta.
Telephone No. 6

D. M. SHARPE, M.D., B.C.
Graduate of McGill, B.Sc., Member of College of Physicians and Surgeons of N. W. C. Office and residence, 100, St. James Street, N. W. C. Office and residence, 100, St. James Street, N. W. C.

W. J. SIMPSON, M.D., C.M.
Physician and Surgeon, office and residence, 100, St. James Street, N. W. C. Office and residence, 100, St. James Street, N. W. C.

A. J. HUGHES, D.D.S.
Dental Surgeon, 100, St. James Street, N. W. C. Office and residence, 100, St. James Street, N. W. C.

P. J. NOLAN, LL. B.
Advocate and Notary,
P. O. Box 22, Calgary, Alberta

COFFIN & KLEIN

Undertakers & Embalmers

PHONE: OFFICE 30, RESIDENCE 29

Money to Loan!

Private Funds—on Real Estate.

MacDONALD & ROBERTSON,

Merchants Bank Bldg.

R. HALL

City Bill Poster

Lacombe, Alta.

All work promptly attended to.

Stewart Cruikshank,

CONTRACTOR & BUILDER.

Estimates furnished:

ALIX, ALTA.

WOOD AND COAL

for sale at

T. CUMMINGS'

Corner Hamilton Avenue and Day Street

The Pioneer Meat

MARKET.

The choicest Beef, Pork Mutton, Pork Sausage, Bologna Sausage, Hams, Bacon, Spice Roll, also Fish, Game and Poultry in season.

Dealer in Fat Cattle, Hogs and Sheep.

W. F. Puffer.

LACOMBE, ALTA

LACOMBE

Livery, Feed, Sale & Exchange Stables.

Good horses and harness and up-to-date rigs.

Special attention given to the feed business.

H. L. PEMBERTON

Winters' old stand, Barnett Ave., Lacombe

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

Trade Marks

Copyrights &c.

Any one sending a sketch and description may receive a preliminary opinion. The inventor is not bound to accept of any opinion. The inventor is not bound to accept of any opinion. The inventor is not bound to accept of any opinion.

Scientific American.

A leading authority on all matters of science, invention, and discovery. It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world.

It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world.

It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world.

It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world.

It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world.

It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world.

It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world.

It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world.

It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world.

It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world.

It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world.

It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world. It is the only publication of its kind in the world.

Blankets,

Robes,

Trunks,

Suit Cases,

at right prices.

W. L. Elliott's.

THE Merchants Bank

OF CANADA.

HEAD OFFICE, MONTREAL

Capital Paid Up - $6,000,000

Reserve Fund - 4,000,000

Total Assets over 50,000,000

A general banking business transacted Savings Bank Department.

Interest at three per cent per annum allowed on Savings Bank Deposits of $1.00 and upwards. Interest added to principal quarterly.

E. W. McMULLEN, Manager.

Lacombe Branch

Province of Alberta

NOTICE TO STOCK OWNERS.

Notice is hereby given that on and after the First day of July, 1906, the joint office of the Recorders of Brands for the Province of Alberta and Saskatchewan will be situated at Medicine Hat, Alberta. All communications in connection with brands should after that date be addressed to the Recorder of Brands, Medicine Hat, Alberta.

Money sent in payment of fees should be remitted by postal note, money order or express order made payable to The Recorder of Brands, Medicine Hat. If cheques are sent they must be certified by the bank on which they are drawn and the necessary exchange must be included.

Recording of Brands in Both Provinces.

Persons ranging cattle in the vicinity of the inter-provincial boundary (the Fourth Meridian) when applying for brands should, in order to protect themselves, also apply for a record of the same in the Province of Saskatchewan, which may be effected on payment of an additional fee of $1.00.

GEO. HARCOURT,

Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

Department of Agriculture, Provincial Government Offices, Edmonton, Alta.,

Try This For Your Cough.

To relieve a cough or break up a cold in twenty-four hours, the following simple formula, the ingredients of which can be obtained of any good prescription drugist at small cost, is all that is required: Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), one-half ounce; Glycerine, two ounces; good Whisky, a half pint. Shake well and take in teaspoonful doses every four hours. The desired results can not be obtained unless the ingredients are pure. It is therefore better to purchase the ingredients separately and prepare the mixture yourself. Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be purchased in the original half-ounce vials, which drugists may be dispensed. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case which protects the Oil from exposure to light. Around the wooden case is an engraved wrapper with the name—'Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure)'—plainly printed thereon. There are many imitations and cheap productions of Pine, but these only create nausea, and never effect the desired results.

I will mail you free, to prove merit samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my book on either dyspepsia, the heart or the kidneys. Troubles of the stomach, heart or kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak stomach nerves—the inside nerve—mean stomach weakness, always. And the heart, and kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerve". As for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by all dealers.

Wetaskin in Saskatoon.
Saskatoon, Man., Aug. 6.—The worst hail in experience of our oldest settlers visited this neighborhood about 8 o'clock last evening, thousands of acres of splendid crops are completely demolished. The belt is two miles wide and the length at present writing cannot be ascertained, but is not less than ten miles. The storm was accompanied by a high wind and there is hardly a whole pane of glass in the track of the storm.

Minto, Man., Aug. 6.—There was a very severe hail storm here last night. Many farmers hailed out by hail as big as hen's eggs; some farmers had a lot of windows smashed and other damage done.

Redden, Man., Aug. 6.—The worst hail storm that ever visited this district happened about 8:30 yesterday evening. Windows were smashed in every house in town, garden stuff pounded into the ground and grain reaching four or five miles each side of the town is more or less damaged.

Ninette, Man., Aug. 6.—Crops in the Fairhall district, 9 miles south of here, were badly damaged by hail last night's storm, taking in a strip of country 8 miles long and 3 miles wide.

It Imparts Strength.
Just think of the enormous strengthening power Ferrozene possesses—consider what it did for H. V. Potter, well known in Kingston, "I was subject to spells of dizziness. For eight months I had intense pain in my right side between the shoulders. I was almost incurable with weakness and lack of vigor. Often I scarcely ate any breakfast and felt miserable all day. Nervous, easily excited, troubled with heart weakness, I was in bad shape. Ferrozene restored and nourished me back to health in short order." Whatever your weakness may be Ferrozene will cure. Price 50c per box at all dealers.

Pastor Han a "Speak-Easy."
Washington, D. C. Aug. 4.—While the Rev. Henry Newman, pastor of a small church was preaching to his congregation the police raided his home and arrested his wife, Melinda, on a charge of running an unlicensed bar.

After the services the preacher walked leisurely in the direction of his home, and just as he was about to go up the front steps the police placed him under arrest, it being charged that he was responsible for the conduct of the other members of the household of which he was the head. In the police court both demanded a jury trial. Bail was fixed for the man at $1,000, while the woman was held in the sum of $1,500 it being the second time she had been up on the charge.

The police have had the personage under surveillance for some time because of their having so many late visitors. The police got ninety-three bottles of beer a gallon of whiskey and three gallons of gin.

When Children are Sick
They eat something that disagrees, catch cold, have cramps or colic. If there is pain just apply Nervoline—it's good to rub on, and for the inside it's most comforting. Effective and pleasant, you can't find a household panacea to equal Polson's Nervoline. Used with satisfaction for half a century and it better demand every day because it does stop pain, ease suffering and cure the thousand and one ills that constantly arise in the family. Large bottles at all dealers for 35c.

Stealing Wives in Edmonton.
Edmonton, A. S. 14.—Not out with stealing horses, some bold Edmontonians have been stealing other men's wives. Yesterday two applications were made at the R. N. W. M. P. barracks and the assistance of that body requisitioned to locate levitating wives. In one case the lady took along $15 and the other one took her husband's trunk.

It Creeps Like a Serpent.
Steals through the system like a thief in the night. That's how catarrh acts. Don't trifle with such a scourge. Don't experiment with a doubtful treatment. Time and experience prove that Catarthine does cure, that it gives quick relief and so thoroughly destroys the disease, that it dies forever.

Get Catarthine in the first place, your cure is assured. In 30c and $1.00 sizes at all dealers and guaranteed in every case.

Fell From Her Horse.
On Friday morning Mrs. Moan, of Fall, fell from her horse and sustained serious injuries. She was found unconscious by the roadside and taken home where she soon recovered sufficiently to speak. She was on her way home after taking her boy to school, when the pony started aside and threw her heavily upon some small stump. Word was at once sent to Wetaskin and Dr. Shoop, who went out to attend the sufferer. Several ribs were torn loose from the cartilages at the back and two more in front. Mrs. Moan is now recovering slowly.—Wetaskin Post.

Free, for catarrh, just to prove merit.
A trial size box of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. Let me send it now. It is a most potent, creamy, healing, antiseptic balm. Containing such healing ingredients as oil of eucalyptus, thymol, menthol, etc. It gives instant and lasting relief to catarrh of the nose and throat. Make the free trial and see for yourself what this preparation does and will accomplish. Address Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Large jars 50 cents. Sold by all dealers.

Bratol Murder in Saskatchewan.
Wolsely, Sask., Aug. 4.—Word was brought into Wolsely at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon of the murder of Rose Bratol, the seven-year-old daughter of Mrs. Moor, a German, living about 17 miles south of here. The child was missed at 9 o'clock Friday morning and found by her mother and grandmother, Mrs. Hess, about 9 o'clock Saturday morning in a hole six inches deep and three feet long at the edge of a slough where the bushes were very thick two miles from any dwelling. The body had been roughly crushed into the hole and only covered with sod. One arrest has been made.

I'll stop your pain free.
To show you first—before you spend a penny—what my Pink Pain Tablets can do, I will mail you free, a trial package of them. Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets. Neuralgia, headache, toothache, period pains, etc., are due alone to blood congestion. Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets simply kill pain by coaxing away the unnatural blood pressure. That is all. Address Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Sold by all dealers.

Municipalities in Favor of Sunday Cars.
Fort William, Aug. 15.—The Canadian Municipalities convention selected Medicine Hat as the next place of meeting. Mayor McIlreath, of Halifax, was elected president. As a result of a lively discussion the convention expressed itself as favorable to the operation of Sunday cars, and passed a resolution indorsing the right of individual municipalities to hold discussions on the question.

Piles get quick and certain relief from Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment.
Please note it is made alone for Piles, and its action is positive and certain. Itching, painful, protruding or blind piles disappear like magic by its use. Large nickel-capped glass jars 50 cents. Sold by all dealers.

$30 Reward!

Lost—1 bay gelding branded R on right jaw, 1 bay gelding branded 5L vent. 15 on left hip and bar U on right jaw, 1 grey gelding wire cut on right knee, last seen 6 miles from Ferry Point on Battle River going south. Also $50.00 for a glass eyed buckskin mare branded JE on right hip, last seen 6 miles south of Spring Lake with halter on dragging rope, supposed to be making for Sedgewick.

Above rewards will be paid to anyone giving such information as will lead to their recovery.

TAYLOR & KING 35-44-13, Killam.

FOR SALE.

1 team of Oren, weight about 1500 each, age 5 years. $13000 takes the team and yoke. Also for sale, an Atlas and a cream separator in first class condition.

A. E. DRAHER,
9 miles west, 1 mile north from Lacombe

METHODIST CHURCH.

Rev. H. E. Gordon B. A. Pastor; public service, every Sabbath morning at 11 o'clock; every Sabbath evening 7 o'clock. Sabbath School and Bible Class every Sabbath afternoon at 3 o'clock. Epworth League Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Junior Epworth League Monday afternoon at 4:30. Public prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Strangers and visitors are extended a special welcome.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 o'clock. Christian Endeavor every Wednesday at 8 p. m. Pastor Rev. M. White, M. A. D. D.

ST. CYPRIAN'S CHURCH.

Sunday services, 11 a. m., 7 p. m. Holy Communion last and third Sundays of the month, 11 a. m. Sunday school, 3 p. m. Service, Wednesday, 8 p. m.—Rev. R. A. Robinson.

W. Crow & Co.

Real Estate and Fire Insurance Brokers.

Farms and city property for sale.

MONEY TO LOAN on raw land, improved farms, stores and private dwellings.

Auctioneer, and Employment Agent.

Nelson St. Lacombe, Alta.

To Consumptives.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS and all throat and lung MALADIES. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address

REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Shovel in less fuel—get out more heat

Feed door's extra-big in the right furnace—made that way so as to take all kinds of fuel; big chunks of coal, rough blocks of wood—anything burnable burns right in the

Oxford Furnace

burns any fuel

This furnace alone gets all the heat out of fuel that's possible, yet wastes none in smoke—couldn't be a good furnace if it smoked much. This furnace has the Oxford triangle grate-bars (easiest to repair—take one out and disturb none other) that make the fire burn a lot of air,—perform combustion means that. Come and look, or get the book.

THE GURNEY FOUNDRY CO., LIMITED

Toronto—Hamilton—Montreal—Winnipeg—Vancouver

The Gurney Standard Metal Co., Limited, Calgary

That door won't sag—it can't leak gas age

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

burns any fuel

This furnace alone gets all the heat out of fuel that's possible, yet wastes none in smoke—couldn't be a good furnace if it smoked much. This furnace has the Oxford triangle grate-bars (easiest to repair—take one out and disturb none other) that make the fire burn a lot of air,—perform combustion means that. Come and look, or get the book.

THE GURNEY FOUNDRY CO., LIMITED

Toronto—Hamilton—Montreal—Winnipeg—Vancouver

The Gurney Standard Metal Co., Limited, Calgary

That door won't sag—it can't leak gas age

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

Extra large door

A Gigantic Trust Out of Business!

We are not selling International Harvester Co's. goods this season,
But

"Driving Pirates from the sea is not all there is of commerce.

Keep your eye on the crowd and follow up, you'll come to the headquarters of The Western Implement Co., where is sold the famous

Monitor Drill--the highest type of man's genius wrought in steel

Why is "The BEST always the CHEAPEST"?

Because it pays the largest dividend on the amount invested.

Action in the field decides generalship.

After your milking is done in the morning don't make the little daughter of twelve or fifteen miss school by staying at home to turn that old cream separator. What is a few dollars invested in value received compared with the comfort derived from giving your children an education? Remember life is fleeting.

Buy a Separator that runs by steam--The Famous Sharples Turbine.

You can see one running in our office. It can be turned into a feed cooker as well.

Farmers, get into and stay into the dairy business. Your cream checks are better to pay your bills with than giving your note, and more easily obtained than paying your note.

Don't give up the farm. Far better to content yourself there than move into Lacombe where there are so many By-Laws to contend with--webs woven by the brains of the votaries of learning.

We are closing out some Canton brush breaking plows at cost. Also Rock Island gang stubble plows. See us for bargains in all lines, from the Port Huron threshing machinery to a wheelbarrow, buggies, wagons, John Deere plows, Frost & Wood binders and mowers, and the Shontz Ideal Giant Mower,--do not buy till you see it.

Western Implement Co.

Jas. McVay, Mgr.

Lacombe, Alta.

Cloudburst in Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 19.--St. Paul and Minneapolis were last night swept by a storm that was almost a cloudburst and cyclone in one, and which visited many other points in the northwest, with at least one known fatality. Anna Bolander was instantly killed by lightning in Duluth. Many others were injured.

Telegraph and telephone poles and wires were blown down in both cities, a church steeple was partly demolished in Minneapolis and a smokestack at an elevator company's plant blown down. Several small fires were started in St. Paul.

The storm area is believed to be more than 150 miles in every direction, with St. Paul as a central point. The damage to crops is estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars. Washouts are reported on nearly all the railroads.

Montreal People Will Eat Horses.

Montreal, Aug. 19.--Mr. F. A. Park of Chicago has called upon Dr. Laberge, medical health officer, in regard to the slaughtering of horses for human consumption. It was desired to purchase horses in Montreal and ship to Chicago, where they could be turned into human food. The stranger was referred to several horse dealers in the city; but as the prices of horses are high in Montreal, it is not thought a trade in horse meat would be successful in Montreal. The reply was that the public would have to be educated to like the meat, which, it appears, is much appreciated in Paris and other cities.

Inquiry was accordingly made as to the Montreal by-laws on the subject, and Dr. Laberge said he could find nothing against the erection of a special abattoir for the slaughter of horses. There might be some legal point in the fact that the city was pledged to prevent the public sale of meat from any but recognized abattoirs. This was evident in fact that when a private packing house was to be established it became necessary to go down to Quebec and get a special bill through.

Dr. Laberge went on to say that he thought the board would soon have to take hold the matter and adopt regulations. There was really no reason why horse meat should not be used especially when beef costs so much. It was, therefore, better to regulate the sale and prevent abuses.

August "Canadian Pictorial".

The midsummer spirit pervades the August "Canadian Pictorial". The outdoor life is pictured in many of its varying phases. The cover is a scene of young fellows fishing that makes a "brain-fagged" worker sigh for streams that he has heard about. There is, too, a page of fishing scenes in the lakes of Northern Ontario, where the black bass run four and five pound. Then there's yachting and camping and wading and diving, and a picture of one of the fashionable seaside resorts of the Lower St. Lawrence. But it is not all play. There are two haymaking scenes, taken on an Ontario farm, showing the toilers going out in the morning, and building the last load in the evening. There are curious things, such as one of the oldest trees in England, and the skillful way in which Italian cavalry officers ride. Then come the news-pictures, of which the chief are, those illustrating the national welcome home that Sir Wilfrid Laurier received, and the catastrophe at London, Ont., in which eight lives were lost. Current events on the other side of the water are not overlooked. The distinguished Canadian of the month is the recently knighted Lieutenant Governor of Ontario; and in the Woman's Department there is a fine picture of Lady Clark, also articles on "The Outdoor Life," "Summer Shopping," "Fruit Preserving," as well as timely fashion pictures. Ten cents a copy, one dollar a year. The "Pictorial" Publishing Co., 113 St. Peter street, Montreal.

Cameron & Hay

Merchant Tailors

You Want a Bargain

We are clearing out summer goods at Reduced Prices. We want the room for winter goods, now arriving.

CAMERON & HAY

Hospital Fund.

Lacombe, Aug. 15.

Mrs. F. L. Smith	$1.00
Mrs. T. Sinclair	1.00
Mrs. G. Vickers	1.00
	$3.00
Total of Aug 8	$901.85
Total cash on hand	$864.85
Amount paid for hospital site	$11.50
Total contributions to date	$1176.35

SUFFOLK PUNCHES

Messrs. Jacques Bros., of Lamerton P. O., Alberta, Importers and Breeders. Stallions for sale.

Estray.

Came to my place N. E. 1/4 of 24027. W. 4 one strawberry roan horse branded NH on left shoulder, a split near tip of left ear.

R. E. JOHNSON.

Chamberlain's Remedies.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
For Coughs, Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough. Price 25 cents; large size 50c.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.
For Bowel Complaints. Price 35 cents.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm.
An antiseptic liniment especially valuable for Cuts, Bruises, Sprains and Rheumatism. Price 25 cents; large size 50 cents.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets.
For Disorders of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Price 25 cents.

Every one of these preparations is guaranteed and if not fully satisfactory to the purchaser the money will be refunded.

The only nourishment that bread affords is that which the flour contains.

Bread baking is merely putting flour in appetising form.

Flour making is merely putting the nutritious part of wheat in shape for bread making.

Good milling is the kind that takes from the wheat all that is nutritious, nothing else.

Royal Household Flour

is made from carefully selected Manitoba Hard spring wheat.

Every pound is almost a pound of food; clean, white, pure and nutritious.

It goes farther, does better baking and is more satisfactory in every way than any other flour.

Your grocer knows he cannot keep store so well without Ogilvie's Royal Household.

Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Limited,
MONTREAL.

"Ogilvie's Book for a Cook," contains 130 pages of excellent recipes, some never before published. Your grocer can tell you how to get it FREE.

